

The Salt Cathedral

A sea-cave church of white salt and black tide pools.

A Tide Mouth

A broken oval intake where the sea still slaps a gravel bar. A barnacled anchor is jammed in the opening.

B Salt Organ

A tall kidney chamber whose walls are vertical salt pipes, some snapped. A stone bench faces the pipes.

C Brine Well

A circular rim around a dark brine shaft. A wooden sweep-arm and bucket hang over the hole.

D Crystal Lung

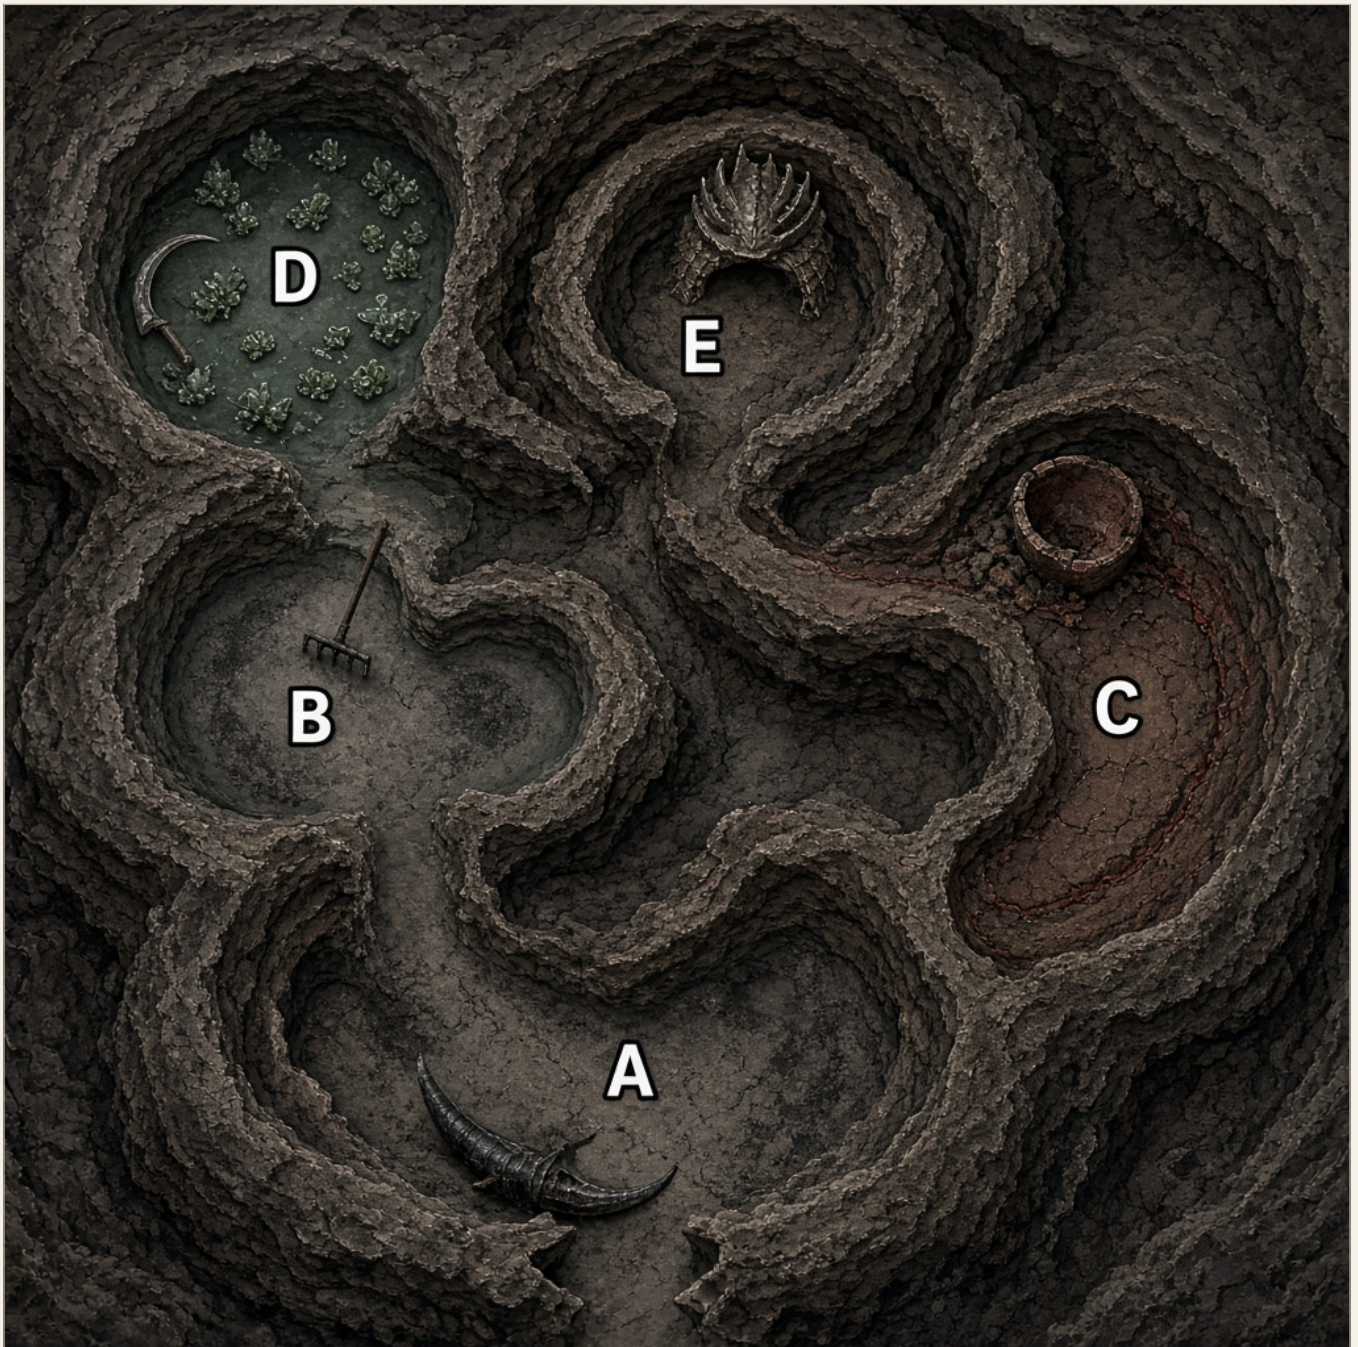

A teardrop grotto of dull white salt blades pointing inward. A single rusted censer sits on the floor.

E Widow's Pulpit

A high crescent ledge overlooking the rest of the cave, with a salt-crusted lectern.

The Ember Snail

The hollowed shell of a volcanic snail, ash and cooled slag.

A Shell Gate

The cracked spiral lip of the shell, an irregular star-notch. A blackened war-horn lies across the threshold.

B Ash Crop

A figure-eight of two ash-filled bowls joined by a narrow slag isthmus. A farmer's rake is stuck upright in the ash.

C Magma Coil

A long crescent of cooled rope-lava, walkable, with one still-dark red seam. A cracked crucible sits on the bend.

D Glass Garden

An oval pocket of dull bottle-green slag flowers. A glass scythe leans on the wall.

E Queen Cinder

The innermost spiral chamber, small and round, with a throne of fused snail-plate and a cold cinder crown.

The Buried Circus

A carnival swallowed by earth, canvas and painted wood under dirt.

A Ticket Ruin

A collapsed booth shaped like a torn ticket stub. A brass ticket-chopper is still bolted to the counter.

B Lion Pit

A sunken oval of sand with iron-bar remnants along the rim. A moth-eaten lion pelt is staked in the center.

C Tentfold

A maze of fallen striped canvas making three fused triangular pockets. A tent-peg mallet lies in the middle pocket.

D Mirror Wagon

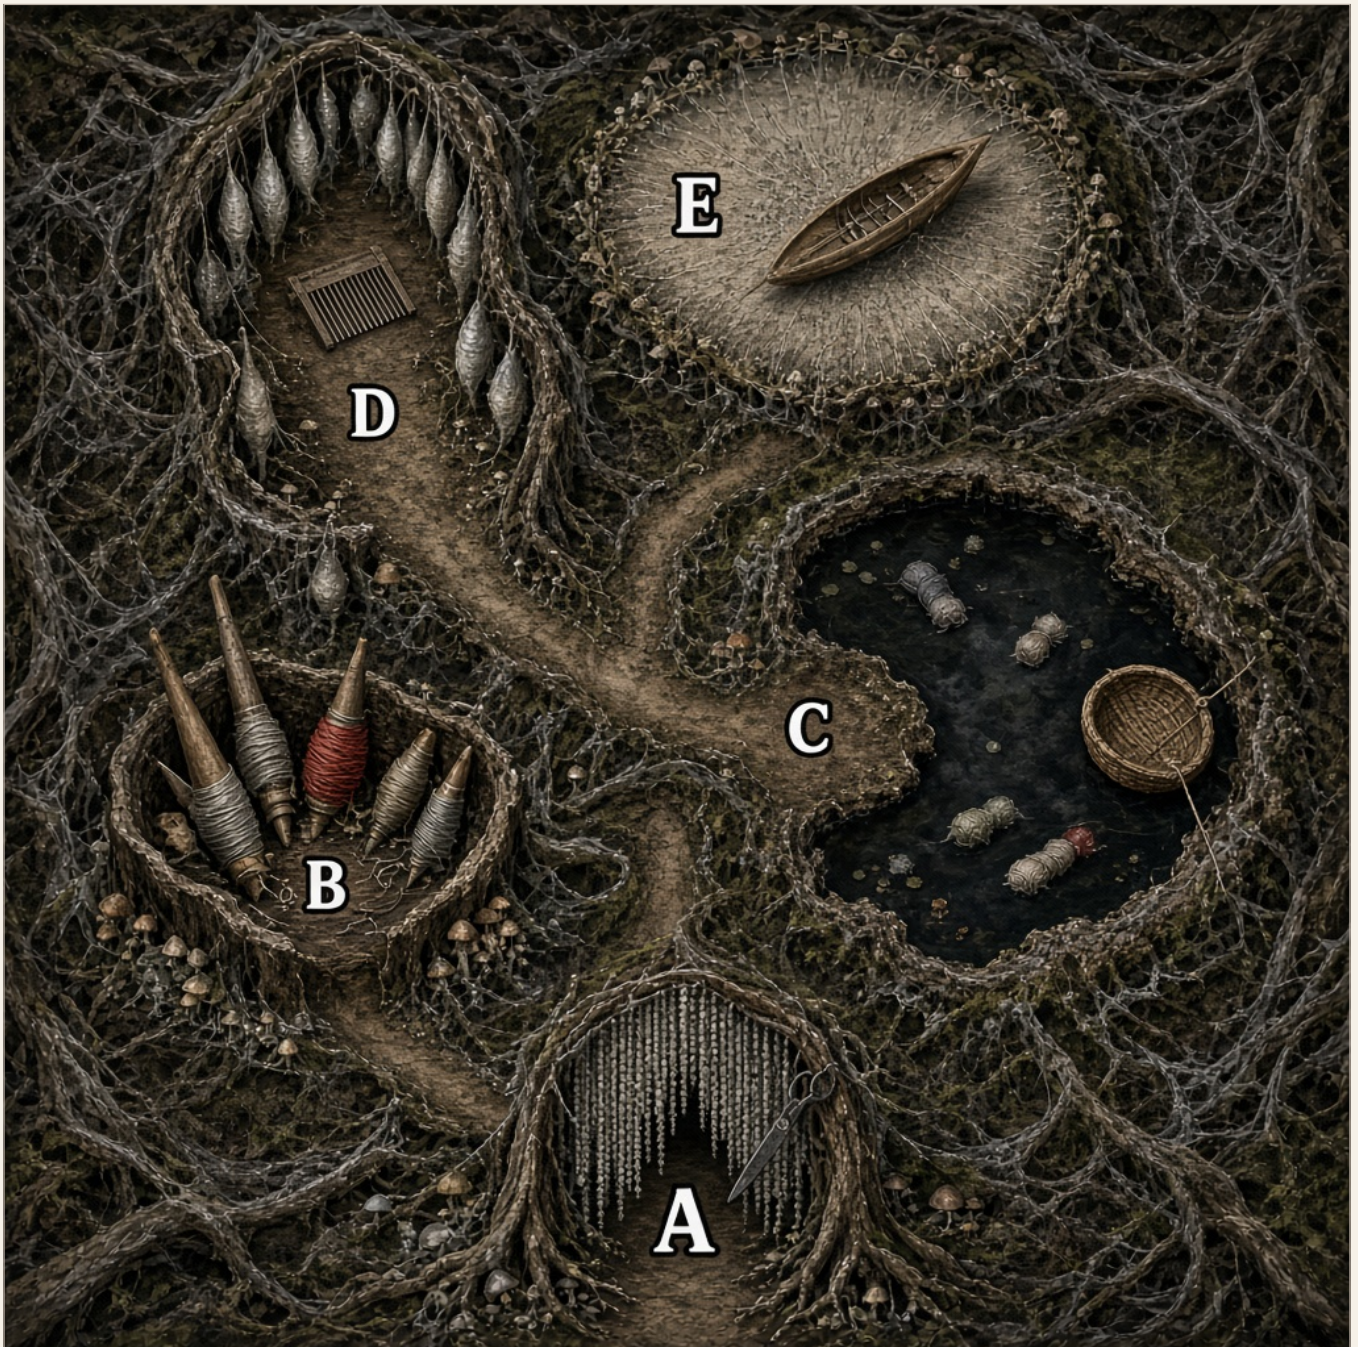

A tipped wagon body, kidney-shaped interior of cracked mirrors. A unicycle leans in the corner.

E Ringmaster's Grave

A circular ring of buried benches around a dirt mound. A top hat and a broken whip rest on the mound.

The Quiet Loom

An abandoned weaver-grove of wood, fungus, and slack thread.

A Warp Door

A standing frame of two living trees with a curtain of grey warp-threads. A pair of shears hangs from a branch.

B Spindle Hollow

A bowl-shaped stump-room packed with giant wooden spindles. One spindle is still wound with red wool.

C Thread Lake

A crescent pool of still black water with floating skeins. A coracle of bark is tied to a root.

D Cocoon Gallery

A long irregular gallery of hanging silk pods, walkable down the center aisle. A loom-comb is stuck in the dirt.

E Still Shuttle

A high oval platform of packed mycelium. A man-sized wooden shuttle is parked like a boat.
